We are at the heart of the community

Changing lives for the better. Since 1985 we have been serving humanity around the world, including right here in the UK.

From the streets...

Our grassroots Street Iftar, during this year's Ramadan, celebrated the community spirit that emerged after the Finsbury Park terrorist attack last year. Over 60 young volunteers provided food to 2,000 who attended to pay tribute to those affected by the incident and to foster the public spirit that has continued to develop since the attack.

to the sports field...

Our Sports and Development programme has engaged over 3,000 young British people in unity through sports, bringing them together regardless of race or religion 'to kick a ball and change a life'. This helps to foster self-belief and provides funding to orphans and vulnerable children around the world.

to vital support in the face of tragedy.

Our young volunteers and staff rushed to help when the Grenfell Tower fire happened. They were sorting and distributing food and clothing donations, organising meals, and finding temporary accommodation. We continue to fund psycho-social counselling in the hope that no-one affected by this tragic event feels forgotten.

It's time no more hearts were broken.

We understand that to break the cycle of poverty and violence, we need to empower and support young people to believe in themselves through real change. Protecting them from disengagement, exclusion, gang culture and knife crime means making a difference to their lives not just today, but for the future too. That's why through our development programmes and local aid response work at the heart of the community to show young people across the UK that they do have a future - a future we believe in.

We believe in change. Be at the heart of it with us.
